HIGHWAY FIGHT CARRIED TO GOVERNOR

SHOWER PRAISE ON FLIERS UP FOR 172 HOURS

HAD SECOND-HAND MOTOR

25,000 Persons at Fort Worth Field as Craft Is Brought to Earth

FORT WORTH Tex May 27— [illegible] ration the peacetime [illegible] of heroes today focused on [illegible] where two plucky Amer[illegible] were sleeping the sleep of [illegible] exhaustion after one of [illegible] ending feats yet recorded [illegible] developing giant industry [illegible] L Robbins and James [illegible] barn formin[illegible] flier [illegible] single motored Ryan monoplane Fort Worth here at 1 05 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a [illegible] flight of 172 hours and 3[illegible] establishing a new endurance record for all types of aircraft

The previous record established by [illegible] Question Mark was [illegible] Robbins and Kelly by more [illegible] hours The Question Mark a [illegible] equipped Ireland motored Lockheed [illegible] of five men had remained aloft 150 hours and 40 minutes The Fort Worth stayed in the air 172 hours 7 minutes according to official computation

Spent Very Little

The achievement of Robbins and Kelly is more remarkable in view of the fact that their craft was a two year old reconditioned plane powered with a single second hand Wright Whirlwind motor Robbins is a former railroad mechanic and Kelly a former west Texas cowboy Like the famous Colonel Lindbergh neither was taken very seriously when preparations for the record flight began

Preparations for the flight of the Question Mark are reputed to have cost $100 000 Robbins and Kelly spent very little and had difficulty at times raising that

Robbins known as one of the southwest's most popular barnstorming fliers had the old Ryan monoplane refitted for the assault on the Question Mark's record He estimated that upwards of 10 000 passengers had taken commercial rides in it before he acquired it The motor was second hand when Robbins took over the plane less than two years ago He had flown it more than 30 000 miles without a forced landing

25,000 See Descent

The motor still was functioning late today when the weary fliers after more than a week in constant flight circled their most descend Storm and winds encountered in the last 24 hours of the monotonous grind damaged the propeller and made further flight impossible

When the plane settled to the land a field the great crowd estimated at

MOVES TO RID MARION COUNTY OF CROSSINGS

Rotary Club Hears Talk on Elimination Program of State

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Three Crossings Cited as Dangerous, Would Cost County $75,000

A movement looking toward the elimination of grade crossings in Marion county took form today at a meeting of the Marion Rotary club as the result of a talk by Edward O Lincapher member of the club

Lincapher addressed the club on The Grade Crossing Elimination Program of the Ohio State Highway Department and following his talk consideration was given to the appearance of the club's public relations committee before the board of county commissioners

Stand of the commissioners on proposed grade crossing elimination will be sought

In the past the county board has refused to cooperate with the state it is said because the officials declared they were unable to finance such projects

Lincapher outlined the methods used by the state to obtain revenue for its work particularly its crossing elimination program In elimination of crossing he showed that counties pay only 25 per cent of the cost the state 25 per cent and the railroads affected 50 per cent

Average cost of a grade crossing elimination Lincapher figures revealed is about $250 000 This cost of course does not apply to big elimination projects such as Cleveland and Columbus have under way Thus in Marion county he said the county's cost would be about $20 000 to $25 000

He cited three crossings that have been regarded as dangerous These are the Pennsylvania and Hocking Valley crossings south of Marion on the Prospect rd and the Pennsylvania crossing north of Marion on the Waldo rd

Lincapher referred in his talk to the two mill levy which is to be presented to citizens at the polls next November This levy annually brings in about $180 000 for maintenance of county roads The greater part of this sum

DELAYED CROPS KEEP FARMERS AT WORK NIGHTS

Two Shifts Reported In Operation at Many Points in This District

HELD UP BY WEATHER

Tractors Equipped with Electric Lights Used in Overtime Operations

Many farmers of Marion and surrounding counties are failing to observe the old rule for agriculturists Early to bed and early to rise and instead have adopted a new slogan Never to bed

The cause is a determined effort being made by the farmers to get their corn crop planted before it is too late Reports from various points in the county show that many farmers are running their tractors day and night in an effort to beat old Jup Pluvius

The plan on these farms is to work full 24 hour shifts This double duty is accomplished by putting an electric light on the front end of the tractor

Expert Good Yield

Officials of the local farm bureau report that there is no reason why the corn yield should not be as high as usual despite the rainy weather encountered earlier in the season Many farmers do not aim to plant their corn until May 20 or 25 as this will mean only a delay of about one week

There is little doubt however that the oats acreage will be the smallest in years bureau officials say The incessant rains played havoc with the early planting and many farmers will not have an oats crop

Farm bureau heads say that what oats are produced will be of a fine quality but the yield will be so small that the quality will make little difference.

Oats Situation

The oats that had their stocks out of the ground before the heavy rains started will profit from the rains but the oats that were still in the ground when the downpours started will not be worth a great deal

With the fine weather that the county has been getting in the past week or so the corn crop should progress at a rapid rate bureau officials stated

Aviation Holds Center of Interest as Records Are Set

Navy Wins Tenth Annual Curtiss Marine Trophy At Speed of 175 Miles

Two French Officers Also In Possession of New Mark for Distance of 5,000 Kilometers; Two European-Bound Planes Still Waiting for Good Weather

With all motors functioning beautifully, aviation, the infant industry, roared into the new week today far in advance of all competitors in the matter of public interest.

Virtually every news story of importance throughout the nation is either intimately or remotely connected with the flying art.

Outstanding is the feat of R. L. Robbins and James Kelly in breaking the endurance record for all types of aircraft at Fort Worth, Tex. The hitherto unknown pilots who kept their single motored rebuilt monoplane, the Fort Worth, aloft for 172 hours, 32 minutes and 2 seconds were sleeping the sleep of victory today while flying enthusiasts everywhere marvelled at their accomplishment.

To Be Dined, Feted

When they awake from their slumbers some time today, the fliers will be dined and feted by their native city and otherwise will reap the rewards of their work. Twenty-two hundred dollars will be presented to them by the aviation corporation as a bonus for bettering the endurance record of the "Question Mark," the amount of the award being determined on the basis of $100 for every hour which they remained in the air beyond the record of the army plane.

In addition to this, the pilots, together with the members of the crew of their refueling "course ship" will be given a substantial cash reward by the citizens and business men of Fort Worth.

While the Fort Worth aviators were coming to earth, Owen Haughland of Robbinsdale, Minn., and Gene Shank of Minneapolis, took off from Wichita in a Cessna monoplane in search of still a new endurance mark.

At Old Orchard, Me., two crews of transatlantic fliers—American and French—were waiting impatiently to take off on non-stop hops to Rome and Paris. Latest indications, according to International News Service reports, were that neither plane would get away before tomorrow.

Navy Is Winner

The air departments of both the army and navy likewise are playing parts in the aviation pageant now passing in review before the public.

In Washington, the navy is exulting over the smashing of all speed records for standard naval seaplanes by Lieut. W. C. Tomlinson. Lieutenant Tomlinson drove his Wasp-motored Curtiss fighter over a 100-mile course to win the tenth Curtiss marine trophy race at an average speed of 175.01 miles an hour.

It is significant to note that only one serious accident was reported of almost innumerable flying activities of the week-end.

At Summit, N. J., pilot Richard Perry is dead and two passengers are injured as the result of the crash of a "sightseeing" plane into a pasture.

Set Speed Record

Two French army pilots, according to International News Service dispatches from Paris, today were in possession of the world's speed record for a distance of 5,000 kilometers. The two, Commandants Weiss and Girier, flew for 20 hours at an average speed of 111.76 miles an hour.

At Dessau, Germany, the altitude record went by the boards when a dunkers monoplane rose to a height of 41,010 feet.

Announcement was made in Russia that on Aug. 9 a Russian plane will leave Moscow on a 12,500-mile flight to New York by way of Siberia and Alaska.

In Washington, the army announced the appointment of 224 students to the army air corps fields at San Antonio, Texas, and Riverside, Cal.

U. S. Physicians Go Broke In London As Money Disappears

It is alleged by authorities that 50 gallons of wine and 35 gallons of mash were found when they raided her home. She paid the fine and was released.

TAKES BANDIT'S GUN

YOUNGSTOWN, May 27—Morris Knell, a milkman, doesn't go for the "stick 'em up" stuff. While Knell was making his rounds early today a gun was poked into his ribs, accompanied by the usual command. GOVERNOR HEARS HIGHWAY PROTEST

Marion Has 15 in Delegation Filing Plea with Cooper Today

Large delegations of officials and citizens were in the group that called upon the governor this morning. A motor caravan carried the Kenton delegation to Columbus this morning.

Proposal Change

According to the rerouting plans, route No. 30 is to be made to coincide with the Lincoln Highway through Mansfield, Galion, Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky and Delphos instead of through Mansfield, Galion, Marion, Kenton and Lima.

COLUMBUS, May 27—Vigorous protest against the proposal that the portion of state route 30, between Mansfield and Van Wert, be transferred from the Harding federal highway to the Lincoln highway was registered here today by delegations from Marion, Galion, Lima, Kenton and Crestline.

Spokesmen for these delegations addressed Governor Myers Y. Cooper and Highway Director Robert N. Waid during a conference at the governor's office, giving their reasons why they think the route should remain as it is.

At the conclusion of the conference, the governor promised to give the matter his most serious consideration. Such action, if any, that he may take in the matter, the governor declared, will be "for the best interests of the citizens of the state generally."

Make Request

The protestants urged that Director Waid carry to a meeting of the highway association, at Chicago June 3, a recommendation from Governor Cooper that the present route remain unchanged.

The protests were lodged as a result of an application submitted, it was stated, by officials of the Lincoln Highway association to the federal highway authorities for the proposed change in route.

Spokesmen for the protestants pointed out that, among other reasons for not changing the route, there are more than 100,000 persons in the territory through which the highway now traverses as against about 20,000 persons along the proposed route.

Members of Delegation

Attorney Carl Gugler, Galion, president of the Harding Highway association; William Heberstott, Marion, treasurer of this association; Attorney Fred W. SHOWER PRAISE ON MEN UP 172 HOURS

Achievement More Remarkable as Plane Was Two Years Old

between 25,000 and 30,000, surged forward, breaking police lines and shouting their acclaim.

Deep lines were etched by wind and rain in the faces of Robbins and Kelly and they wore a seven-day growth of beard. But they were smiling. Their wives were first to greet them. Kelly, who successfully withstood the gruelling test of greasing rocker arms on the engine from the precarious perch of an eight-inch cat walk surrounding the Wright Whirlwind motor, folded his bride of six weeks in his arms and there were tears in his eyes.

Propeller Damaged

The storm through which the plane passed Saturday night and Sunday morning damaged the propeller after a blade had been slightly cracked a few hours before. The first flaw in the propeller was believed to have been caused by a blade striking Kelly's safety belt while he was on the cat-walk oiling the rockers.

With the exception of the damaged propeller experts who examined the plane pronounced it in excellent condition.

Aviation experts today were studying the refueling record of the Fort Worth. The plane was refueled 17 times during the long flight. The refueling hose was only 37 feet long. There were contacts when only 10 feet of hose was required. The Question Mark never used less than 65 feet of hose in making contact, according to aviation men here. The piloting skill displayed by the crew of the Fort Worth and the refueling plane is considered remarkable.

Retire Early

Robbins and Kelly retired early last night. They appeared to be in good physical condition, except partially deaf. The continuous roar of the motor had deadened their sense of hearing and they were unable to carry on prolonged conversation.

"We started out to make a record and I guess we made it," Robbins said.

K. K. Hoffman and H. S. Jones, pilots of the refueling ship, were delighted at the accomplishment of their charge. They expressed greater gratification than did either Robbins or Kelly.

WOULD BAR ALIENS FROM NEXT CENSUS

Senate In Another Battle Over Exclusion Proposal of Sackett

WASHINGTON, May 27 — The senate's battle over reapportioning the house of representatives revolved today around a proposal to exclude all aliens from the next census.

The proposal would slash the congressional representation of all large cities and many of the Great Lakes and North Atlantic states. It would increase the number of congressional seats apportioned to rural communities and to the southern and farm belt states.

Administration forces were divided upon the proposition, as were the Democrats. Senator Sackett, Republican of Kentucky, a strong Hoover follower, sponsored the amendment and it had a warm supporter in Senator Black, Democrat, of Alabama. The Hoover senators from "down east" meanwhile joined with Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, in denouncing the amendment.

Power of President

With the aliens question settled, the next skirmish will come over the award of extraordinary powers to President Hoover. A new plan, already approved by the senate on a test vote, will give the president power to automatically reapportion the house of representatives after each census if congress fails to act. An effort to strike out this authority was defeated, 38 to 45, and another attempt to limit it in the coming census was defeated 41 to 42. Both propositions will be voted upon by the senate again.

The measure, as it now stands, will authorize a national census to start at once and to be finished within three years. The results will be used to reapportion the house of representatives. If the new census shows the same trend of population from the farms to the cities as did the last one in 1920, and the same increases in large industrial cities, 28 states will find their representation in congress changed. California and Michigan will be the biggest gainers.

TRAIN VICTIMS

Three Killed in Steubenville District by Locomotives

STEUBENVILLE, May 27—Three men are dead today, all of them having been killed by trains at different places in the Steubenville district yesterday.

Nick Mahila, 36, of Hollidays Grove, W. Va., was struck by a locomotive in the Pennsylvania railroad yards at Weirton, W. Va.

Fred Fix, 32, Steubenville, was run down by a Panhandle passenger train at Goubls O.

An unidentified man was killed by a Pittsburgh and West Virginia passenger train at Goubls tunnel, near Goubls, O.

FOUND ON TRACKS

CLEVELAND, May 27—The body of a young woman who died in a hospital here Saturday after she had been found unconscious along the Wheeling and Lake Erie tracks, had been identified today as that of Miss Frances Sidera, 18. Detectives, who investigated, said the girl apparently had not been run down by a train, yet relatives could suggest no motive for suicide.

Members of the Sunday school and congregation of Emanuel's Lutheran church and six visiting ministers took part in a special program yesterday honoring the pastor on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination in the ministry.

YOUTH UNCONCERNED OVER PEN SENTENCE

Writ of Prohibition Granted in Case of 6-Year-Old Slayer

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., May 27—The world's youngest convicted murderer, Carl Newton Mahon, 6 years old, today played with a "choo choo train," happily unconcerned over the 15-year sentence that hangs over him for the shotgun slaying of his little playmate, 5-year-old Cecil VanHoose, following a childish quarrel.

A writ of prohibition restraining the imposition of the long term in a state reform school was issued on behalf of the young slayer Saturday. Meanwhile the boy has romped about the home of his parents in happy ignorance of the severity of the penalty.

The boy and his parents appear to be the object of sympathy in every place save Paintsville itself. Local sentiment coincides with that expressed by Mr. and Mrs. Albert VanHoose, parents of the slain youngster.

"We are sorry for the Mahon boy," they said, "but we feel that it will be best for him and for other boys if he is punished."

Even Judge J. E. Bailey, who granted the boy the writ of prohibition, took issue with the statement of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, that imposing such a penalty on a child of this age is remindful of medieval times.

Judge Bailey declared that Judge John W. Butcher, who sentenced the boy, was attempting to enforce the law, even though he did exceed his authority.

Judge Butcher, it was learned today, besides holding his county position, is a circus riding Baptist preacher. Prior to his election to county office he was a farmer at Williamsport, Ky.

Gov. Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky has refused to intervene in the case.

Moler was arrested at Main and Center sts. Saturday afternoon at 3:45 when he failed to obey a red traffic light. His bond was fixed at $300.

Lyttle was arrested Saturday night at midnight when his car collided with that of a Mr. Fulton from New London. The cars came together on Center st., near Oak st. Lyttle's Chevrolet and a Whippet driven by Fulton were both damaged. His bond was also fixed at $300.

PROMISE GRAIN PORT IN CONTROL BATTLE

Taplin Brothers Would Build Outlet on Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, May 27—A promise to put northern Ohio lake ports in active competition with Buffalo for seaboard grain traffic was made today by the Taplin brothers as one of their moves in the battle with the Van Sweringen interests for control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, which is one of the units in their contemplated fifth trunk line railroad.

Meanwhile, Taplin attorneys were busy completing a motion seeking dissolution of the injunction granted the Van Sweringens last week, restraining the Taplin "rump" board of directors from functioning as officials of the Wheeling. The motion probably will be filed some time today.

In a signed statement, the Taplin brothers, Charles F., and Frank E., said: "Grain elevators, no doubt would be constructed at Huron, O., for the movement of export grain to Baltimore where ample capacity now exists and is not being used."

Memorial Services Held At Two Churches Honor Marion's War Veterans

Tributes Paid G. A. R. and Soldiers of Other Wars in Programs at Calvary Evangelical and Trinity Baptist; Auxiliary Societies Attend

Tilting homage to Marion's "Fading Line of Blue," the veterans of the Civil War, was paid in church services yesterday. In the morning, the veterans, who are members of Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Union Veterans and other patriotic organizations of the city, including a group of about 100 Boy Scouts, made up a parade from the courthouse to Calvary Evangelical church, at 10 o'clock. Col. George B. Christian led the parade.

The Rev. L. Radebaugh, pastor, used as his text, Joshua, 1:5: "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life; as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee."

Prayerful Leaders

He spoke of Joshua as a great warrior, bringing out that after his great success in the wars, Joshua prayed.

"All great leaders pray," the Rev. Mr. Radebaugh said. He cited Abraham Lincoln as a man of prayer and spoke of the unrecorded deeds of southern soldiers who fell in the Civil war and lie in unmarked graves. He spoke of the women who sacrificed in the war, and said that he felt the women should be given equal credit.

The boys of the World War were commended for their achievements across the sea. He closed his talk with a plea for enlistment in the great army of the Lord.

Last Night's Services

The veterans of the Civil War, the widows, daughters, and auxiliaries were taken to Trinity Baptist church by members of the congregation, for Memorial services there last night.

"We are beginning a week when we pay tribute to American soldiers and sailors who have departed this life, and those who are living, but more so, to those who are dead," the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, said, in opening his talk on "For God and Country."

"We may pause to think what made America possible. We take it for granted, but it was not always this way. America has been a costly nation.

"History is a revelation of the will of God. It will ill become us at a time like this not to thank God for His mercies.

"May the day never come when we shall cease to carry on!"

Urged to "Carry On"

In a short personal address to the veterans and the women who are affiliated, the Rev. Mr. Wood expressed the admiration of the United States for their courage and their sacrifice, urging them to "Carry on!"

"As long as the great God in Heaven gives us life, may we see it through in service to God, country and man," he concluded.

Trinity church was decorated with flags and baskets of flowers. The guests were given seats of honor at the front of the church and to the right of the minister. Boy Scouts from the Trinity church troop were ushers.

STEAMFITTERS' and plumbers' unions threaten to tie up $500,000,000 worth of building in Chicago because of quarrels between unions.

Unable to agree among themselves as to their "jurisdiction" in certain lines of work, the unions would stop building, throw out of work thousands of men with whom they have no quarrel, tie up the business, capital and machinery of building.

Such stupidity is worthy of angry chimpanzees, not of intelligent American mechanics. It is calculated to alienate public sympathy from unions. They are none too strong as it is, with jobs plentiful, wages high, dues and strikes rather a bore.

CHINA TAMANI, who thinks he knows what India needs, wants British power expelled and rulership of India restored to the rajahs under constitutional government.

Native princes submitting themselves to constitutional regulation would be interesting. A restoration of native rule would mean restoration of "suttee"—the burning alive of widows with their husbands' corpses. It would mean unrestricted marriage of little girls to old men, and the old horrible condition of misery for the "untouchables," miserable enough now.

It would mean revival of plagues and famine on the old scale. And if the British left India it would mean the impoverishment of Afghans and a speedy elimination of the superfluous 100,000,000 Hindu population, for which the British are responsible.

But the British will not leave. And natives princes would be first to urge them not to go.

THE Irish Free State has made experiments in temperance with results that interest the intelligent. Not seeking to change customs centuries old by legislation, the Irish government relied on heavy taxation of spirits and less heavy taxation on beer.

A drink of whisky in Ireland costs five times what it did before the war. Distilleries making Irish whisky have declined in number from twenty-five to five.

The sale of whisky illicitly made has also diminished because of severe penalties actually enforced.

TRIAL DATE SET

Father to Get Hearing in Local Court on Non-Support Charge

Vernie Thomas, 37, will go on trial next Friday for the alleged non-support of his two minor children, Harold, 7, and Virginia, 10, whom Mrs. Viola Thomas says he has failed to support since March 1, 1928. The charge was placed against him on April 6, 1928, but he was not located until yesterday, when arrested at Lorain by local police.

Action against Lawrence Gillispie, 16 West Bertzes st., Akron, for non-support of his two minor children, was withdrawn this morning when it was learned that Akron officials would handle the case. The family had moved to Akron since charges were filed here on Dec. 12, 1928.

Henry Yohn, 386 Railroad st., has been charged with non-support of his three minor children. He has not been arrested, pending an investigation of the case.

CONGRESS CAN QUIT IF ACTION PLEDGED

Hoover's Vacation Grant Revealed; Must Promise Legislation by Nov. 1

WASHINGTON, May 27—Congress can "close shop" tomorrow as far as President Hoover is concerned providing it sends to the White House a guarantee that legislation for revision of tariff will be passed by the special session by Nov. 1.

Mr. Hoover's "vacation grant" was announced today by a reliable authority and it is hoped it will spur action on Capitol Hill. The president is extremely anxious to have the country's tariff rates adjusted to meet new foreign competition. He also wants a farm bill but before the lawmakers can leave for the seashores or mountains, it was said, he will insist upon an agreement the tariff question will be settled in the fall. And the agreement must reach him in advance, too.

FEAR CONGRESS MAY RUN WELL INTO FALL

Plans To Write Hoover's Program in Record Time Are Shattered

WASHINGTON May 27—Plans of administration leaders to write President Hoover's special session program into law in record time were shattered today as the session entered its sixth week with both farm relief and tariff legislation still far from settlement

Confronted with the possibility of deadlocks between senate and house on both measures the special session may continue far into the fall

While the house ways and means committee was driving the Hawley bill steadily toward a final vote and passage tomorrow strong opposition has already risen in the senate to the house bill revising the Fordney McCumber tariff schedules to the highest rates in history

The action of the Democratic insurgent Republican coalition in the senate in upsetting the president's farm program has brought leaders face to face with the possibility that the same situation may exist on the administration tariff program

GRANT'S COUSIN, 94, PENNILESS IN PARIS

Madame McKinley Conneau Found Poverty Stricken in French City

PARIS May 27—The 94 year-old Madame McKinley Conneau found poverty stricken in Paris may not be a blood sister of McKinley the martyred president but she is at least a cousin of President Grant Documents in her possession signed by U S Ambassador Washburne proves that she is

Her claims of Madame Conneau that she is a sister of McKinley has met with denials from relatives and close friends of the late president A favor to at the court of Napoleon III, she was granted a pension which expired automatically when the monarch was dethroned

Born in U S

As there is ample proof that Madame Conneau is an American by birth the American Aid Society of Paris has taken her case in hand and provided her with a small pension to meet her immediate needs

Eight weeks ago the American colony was shocked to learn that Madame Conneau had been found penniless in a shabby hall room and she received immediate aid

Her claims that she is a sister of President McKinley have not been substantiated Married at the age of sixteen to a French naval officer Madame Conneau has spent the greater part of her life in France

Presented at Court

Careful investigations have brought to light the fact that she was presented to the Imperial Court of Napoleon III through her brother in law who was chief physician to the Emperor She became an intimate friend of the Imperial couple

Records of Madame Conneau who have known her for many decades have testified that they knew her when she held a high social position in Paris

Among her papers is a document signed by Libbie B Washburne then U S Ambassador in Paris stating that she is an American by birth and a cousin of General Grant who was then President of the United States

The Chicago Y. M. C. A. is getting out a book knocking petting. Somebody's always trying to take the joy out of living!

As the result of the death of a student in one there last week, class rushes have been abolished at Rutgers university. In what way do class rushes anywhere aid the great cause of education?

No doubt Mr. Hoover thought he was naming a law-enforcement commission of eleven, but it seems that pretty much of the citizenship of the country is trying to break into it, either verbally or by letter.

Anyway, Gene Tunney can not complain that that thirty-year-old divorcee with a son of ten is trying to belittle him. She places the loss of him at $500,000, another illustration of the danger of attaining the heights of fame.

Four New York gunmen who held up the office of a Newark, New Jersey, company have been given prison sentences of twenty-five years each. Any paper he may pick up should convince any man or youth who may be contemplating crime that it doesn't pay.

As a result of the adoption by the senate of the Wagner amendment to the census-reapportionment bill, 100,000 jobs as census takers have been taken off the patronage list. How are the minor "patriots" to be rewarded if the old theory that "to the victors belong the spoils" is to be thus done violence?

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to Washington, says he is willing to abandon liquor in his embassy, and will urge the entire diplomatic corps to do so. Hasn't he any feeling whatever? Is he wholly unmindful of what may happen to the "good, law-abiding" citizens down there when the gentlemanly bootleggers have absolute control of the field?

Harry F. Sinclair, in jail for contempt of the senate, has been reelected chairman of the board of directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company. Can it be that the "greatest deliberative body" extant is going to let that board of directors get away with contempt for it such as that?

A Canton woman, found insane by a jury and acquitted of a charge of murder on that ground, has been freed on the testimony of a state expert that she is sane, which recalls the old German proverb: "As fast as laws are devised, their evasion is contrived."

Lady Astor, who is regarded as a strong temperance advocate, told a Plymouth gathering, addressed by her in her campaign for reelection to the house of commons, that, if prohibition in England depended on her deciding vote, she would not give it as the country is not ready for prohibition. Nancy reminds us a bit of some of our congressmen with leaking trunks; she's so different.

Vice President Woodruff.

Last week's announcement of the promotion of Robert E. Woodruff former assistant vice president in charge of transportation of the Erie railroad to the vice presidency in charge of operation was very pleasing reading for his local friends and acquaintances. Certainly it was very pleasing to this newspaper. We would have been pleased had the merit of any former Marion man been thus recognized, but we were especially pleased in this instance, because of our conviction that the one advanced possesses far more than ordinary merit and will be sure to make good in the position to which he has been elevated.

While Mr. Woodruff was serving as superintendent of the local division of the Erie, with headquarters in this city, Marion came to know him as a thorough, capable railroad man, whose knowledge of the rail transportation industry was grounded on experience and extended from the pick-and-shovel stage upward. He made a fine impression here, the forerunner of similar impressions wherever he has been located in the advancements which have come in recognition of his ability. Marion found him courteous and affable, but thoroughly business-like in business matters. His courtesy was not of that kind which invites imposition upon the time of the one showing it. He was frank, direct and dependable. Whatever he gave out when sought for information, he stood by, and it is easy to understand how such a man quickly wins the respect and esteem of newspaper workers. Courteous, dignified, but never given to high-hatting the newspaper fellows, it goes almost without the saying that he quickly won their liking, which has followed him into the new fields he has entered. This is why they are his well-wishers and are pleased as a result of his most recent step upward in the railway business.

Worthy of Consideration.

Those who for the past week have noted the work of removing the old track of the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric company from the public square eastward on Center street and thence north on State to the Big Four railroad tracks probably realize the extent of the undertaking the city must face when it takes up the tracks on east Center and south Main streets and on Delaware avenue abandoned by the Electric company when it retired from the city railway field.

We have been told that the city would possibly be able to salvage enough material when the time came to remove the abandoned tracks to compensate it for the cost of the removal. We can not believe that those who have watched the work mentioned the past week are greatly impressed by this dream, especially those who take into consideration the fact that the Electric company has had a track alongside the track being removed which it has utilized in hauling away the rails and ties, whereas the city, or whoever it may employ, will be compelled to utilize trucks for that purpose.

And while on the subject, it may not be amiss to say that we have not been able to understand why the track soon to replace the one removed last week should be constructed. The C., D. and M. does not run its interurban passenger cars east of its station on west Center street. So far as passenger business is concerned, it is limited to the almost negligible business of the Columbus, Marion and Bucyrus railroad. The chief use to which the trackage of the C., D. and M. east of its local station to State street and on north is put is the transportation of freight. Why should Center street, the busiest thoroughfare in the city, be utilized for the hauling of freight trains? Why should not the line be diverted at or near the Electric company's station to some less important street, or some alley for that matter?

Why can not the city and the C., D. & M., or the city and the state utilities commission, get together on this proposition? The problem is not such a one as to offer insurmountable obstacles! The proposition is worth considering.

The "lung" invented by naval men for use in escaping from sunken submarines has successfully undergone artificial tests at the Washington navy yard equivalent to a depth of 302 feet, 102 feet below the ocean tests. Each succeeding test of the device adds greater encouragement that the time is near at hand when submarines will no longer be referred to as "steel coffins."

Death of Garrett P. Serviss.

Within a few days the name of Garrett P. Serviss will disappear from this page to reappear no more. We had at the time of his passing, last Saturday, a few articles prepared by him in advance of the short illness which culminated in his death. With their publication, what to us has been one of the most pleasurable features of this page will have come to an end. True, some substitute will be offered in their stead, but it will require time and diligent searching to find a feature of the high character of that of this author, lecturer, scientist and philosopher who is gone, the greater portion of whose seventy-eight years was rich in instruction to the reading public.

We liked Garrett P. Serviss because of his fine Christian character as demonstrated by his writings. We liked him because of his bigness of thought and his broadmindedness. We liked him because of his sincerity and his abhorrence of sham and shams. We are sure our readers must have appreciated with us the high character of his writing, his freedom from pretense, his scorn of snobs and snobbery. At all times he was an exponent of the better, nobler things of life; at all times he was free from the indecencies which marks this day of literary vileness. He was a great lover of nature and a close student of her teachings. He thus naturally preferred to reason from fact rather than from theory. His lack of appreciation of the scientific theorists—those who are willing at any time to forego manifest facts to lose themselves in the mazes of theory—had high appeal to us, and his sly thrusts at the pep artists, the inspirationalists—the "hurrah boy" fellows, who so often are able to evoke myriads of suggestions, which so frequently they themselves do not follow—were simply fascinating.

The loss of such a writer is bound to be felt by those who have been following his writings from day to day. We learned of his death at Englewood, New Jersey, with profound regret.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has accepted the tendered governorship of Porto Rico, but the fact doesn't appear to have attracted so much newspaper attention as the announcement that he and Kermit will bring home with them for the Field museum, of Chicago, a giant panda, which they shot during their Asian hunt. Still, let's be fair to the press boys. What's a Porto Rican governorship to a stuffed giant panda?

The Egyptian minister and Mme. Samy avoided becoming involved in the Glenn-Longworth tea battle for social precedence by giving two dinners, one to Speaker and Mrs. Longworth and the other to Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Glenn. This may pass for social expediency, but it's not much as an example of domestic economy.

Dr. James G. McDonald, executive director of the Foreign Policy association, says there will be danger of this country becoming involved in war as long as Americans persist in their idea that they are quite different from and superior to the people of other nations. The good doctor never attained that view by mingling with us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs, each and every one of whom is ever and always hiding his light under a bushel.

BUT LOOK WHAT WE'RE GETTING FOR OUR MONEY.

Acne First Sign of Disorder.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness"—I am not sure that Godliness is quite so easy to acquire as all that.

Few people realize that a clean skin is the finest evidence of a clean body. If your stomach is disordered in its functions, if your teeth need attention, if you are nervous, in fact if your system does not function properly in every way, your skin signals the warning.

There may be a roughness of the skin, pimples, red spots, blotches or even blackheads. These may appear without other warning. They show that something is wrong.

Young people particularly are subject to skin eruptions.

Many a young person has a face peppered with blackheads. Indeed, the face looks exactly as if particles of black pepper had been sprinkled over an inflamed and pimply surface.

When pressed between the thumb nails, a mass like a black-headed worm can be squeezed out of the skin. When left in place these blackheads produce results not unlike the effects of foreign bodies in the tissues. Pretty soon the skin festers, forming a red pimple. When the pimple breaks and the pus discharges the blackhead may escape. If it does not, the same process may be repeated and, each time, the skin is involved more deeply.

The deeper into the tissues the pus burrows the larger the scar. Sometimes the swelling is great, perhaps the size of a pen. When it finally breaks, and discharges, there is sure to be considerable scar when it heals. Even after the acute condition has disappeared entirely, permanent marks will be left.

In what I have said about the causes, there have been plenty of hints as to the cure. Some of these suggestions I will emphasize.

Make sure that your teeth are sound. This is important advice for two reasons. In the first place, you need to have good teeth in order to chew your food properly. In the next place the pus from decayed or abscessed teeth may be a factor in causing acne.

You will eat green vegetables, cooked or in salad, more than has been your custom. Fruit should be taken regularly.

The blackheads must be removed. To do this, wash your face and hands thoroughly with an abundance of soap and water. Boil a watch key or hairpin to make it sterile. Then press out the blackheads, being very careful in the process. Don't remove too many at each sitting, but persist in the matter till they have been taken out to the very last one.

Plenty of soap and water used freely is the first essential to cleanliness. Do not overlook its value. By keeping the skin clean you will help to escape having blackheads.

Editorial Comment.

THRIFT AGAINST CRIME.

S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift, asserts that there is no yardstick by which we can measure American crime from a moral standpoint.

Reliable authority estimates that crime in this country costs approximately $3,000,000,000—twelve times the yearly cost of the army and navy!

This situation, in the view of Mr. Straus, is devastating the moral fiber of the nation; and it is his belief that there is no better antidote for the crime poison than tariff.

The suggestion has greater interest and value than many others offered as helpful in minimizing the terrible volume of criminal activity in the United States. It is not meant to imply that thrift and morality are synonymous; but that thrift tends to moral stability. It is quite true, as Mr. Straus argues: "It is not possible for a person to save money, conserve health, economize time and develop the many fine habits that are necessary to self-advancement and at the same time indulge in practices of dissolution and immorality that are incipiently criminal if not actually vicious."

It also is true that the majority of people are upright by nature and instinct, and that they drift into criminal practices often without realizing the change that is taking place within them. The disintegration is gradual. It should be reasonable, then, to believe that through the inoculation of thrift may be secured immunity from moral deterioration. Most certainly the moral forces of society should labor intensively to cultivate and encourage thrift habits among the people. Thrift should constitute a superior weapon with which to combat and destroy lawlessness. A much better weapon than statutory enactment and unctuous spiritual phrase which recognize the disease of crime, but fail to suggest or supply any practical remedy for its cure.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MEDICAL ETHICS AND MEDICAL COSTS.

Neither Dr. Louis E. Schmidt nor his friends and supporters were surprised by the adverse decision of the house of delegates of the Illinois Medical society in his now celebrated case. Though the expulsion of Dr. Schmidt by the Chicago Medical society has been upheld on the narrowest of grounds, precisely that result was expected. It was necessary, however, that an appeal be made to the Illinois Medical society in order that Dr. Schmidt might be enabled to carry his case to the tribunal of last resort, the judicial council of the American Medical association. That body of eminent physicians may hold a different view of the issues presented.

Some of the members of the state society have taken occasion once more to assure the public that the vital question of the high costs of medical, nursing and hospital care and treatment had nothing to do with the charge made against Dr. Schmidt. That statement will scarcely bear analysis.

The complaint against Dr. Schmidt alleged unethical conduct on his part—namely, indirect and disinterested connection with a medical institution, organized on a no-profit basis, which advertises in order to reach persons in need of medical attention and either unaware of that fact or prevented from seeking treatment by the fees of individual physicians and the prices of drugs. Dr. Schmidt cooperates with the institution because of his conviction that marked reductions in medical costs are essential and that efficient organization, group medicine and modern publicity methods will make reductions possible without injustice to the medical profession. In other words, Dr. Schmidt's alleged unethical affiliation is due to his adherence to a movement in medicine which he regards as reasonable and inevitable. To pass upon his case without considering his motive was to give undue weight to formalism and technicality.

Dr. Schmidt has raised an issue with which the medical profession will have to deal without prejudice or passion. It is an issue which will be settled eventually in the light of broad considerations of public need.—Chicago News.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 27—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and a fine letter from our old pastor, Harry B. Lewis, and to the most unsatisfying breakfast I ever ate of fried herring, tin pineapple and cocoa. Came Clair Maxwell and Norman B. Anthony, Jr., and we discussed our various jousts with journalism.

All afternoon trying to discard a few worn clothes, and longed for an attic, it being especially difficult to part with old shoes. Then walked through the colorful Paddy's market with its shouting hub-bub and elbow-jabbing and bought sassafras to make tea.

In the evening with my wife to call on Florence Simrall from Lexington and to a Syrian cafe and colorful, too, with strange odors and a crone told fortunes. Walked home and passed the Morgan mansion where the pipe-smoking watchmen always keep silent vigil and read Chic Sales hilarious book, "The Specialist."

Trained animal acts are almost of the past in vaudeville and the larger circuses. S. P. C. A. propaganda, stressing cruelty dumb beasts often endure, and frequent arrests of their owners, are largely responsible. Too, the picturesque vagabonds with velveteen coats and rings in their ears, who journeyed forth each spring with performing bears, are thinning. A half hundred used to winter in a little Jersey town. This spring only eight set off on wandering migrations to a thousand Main streets.

Tony, leading his moth-eaten bruin into town by a nose ring, was a welcome relief in the monotonous tedium of a small town twenty-five years ago. Tony's nomadic life offered an enthralling touch of romance to those of us who had never been out of the county. Tony came from an entirely different world and his odd tongue awakened wonder. Adored by youngsters, he was a nuisance to grown-ups for his bear caused runaways. A horse is often terror-stricken by the smell of a bear, and many teams bolted before Tony crossed the lower Chicamaugua bridge into town.

Yet nothing topped the excitement of a good runaway. It happened so suddenly. One moment the street was inert and the next galvanized into an electrical expectancy. Around the court-house corner hell-for-leather came the frightened horse, nostrils dilated and eyes flashing, while the vehicle careened crazily from side to side. Everybody made a half-hearted attempt to stop it, but it usually wound up with a crash against a telephone post. Then the horse, all lathered and steaming, was led meekly through town to the stable. And there was something to talk about for days.

A circus parade was always good for a few hair-raising runaways. The manager of the circus—even John Ringling used to perform the rite—drove in advance of the parade warning farmers to "hold your horses, the elephants are coming." Runaways were costly in damage suits and too many resulted in the "Hey Rube!" call to battle on the circus lot.

It doesn't matter a whole lot, but some of the boys have caught their necks in revolving doors doing that.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

It's not a disgrace to admit your mistakes, but it's a disgrace not to try to correct them.

It takes considerable common sense to carry much learning. Some people who are intellectual act like a man with a new watch. He's always pulling it out of his pocket and looking at it. Some folks, with learning, are constantly trying to sell themselves, to make an impression, to make a showing. A man who can not carry what he knows, with common sense and tact, makes a worse impression than an ignorant man.

There wouldn't be so much ignorance if our pride would let us ask questions. Most of us would rather remain ignorant than show how little we know by asking questions.

Flattery may buy some things for awhile. But flattery is like counterfit money. Before long it will be found out, and it will buy nothing—unless it be contempt.

An old proverb says that while the will reigns at twenty, judgment reigns at forty. Either the man who wrote that had never been forty or he was not very honest. Some of the worst mistakes of judgment and the silliest and most irrational expressions of the will come at forty and beyond. There is no exclusive age of foolishness. There is no remedy save watchfulness.

How many of us desire to appear to be something that we are not willing to try to be!

The Chicago public school system is worthy of attention in its effort to educate both children and parents in matters of physical and mental health. Fortunately there is a growing realization on the part of the school makers in our larger cities that boys and girls must not simply be taught some facts about history, literature, and science, but they must be taught as far as possible how to adjust themselves in a healthful and sane manner to a complicated world.

Prayer—"Take my love, my God, I pour, at Thy feet its golden store."

Common Knowledge.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Scientific experiments, conducted with technical skill and recorded in technical language, have lately demonstrated a remarkable influence of carbon dioxide in preserving hen's eggs. But it seems that this was known to that wise woman, "the housewife," a long time ago, only she did not know the name of the chemical substance concerned, or even that there was any chemistry about it.

What she did to make her eggs keep their good quality was to bury them in her husband's grain bins, and especially in a bin of oats. Now, it is a fact often not too willingly admitted by scientists, that very kind of popular knowledge which comes from intimate personal contact with nature at her day's work, is not "superstition" at all, but simply first-hand information, like that which tells us that exposure to sunshine will produce sunburn, and will do so whether we can explain it or not.

Then, suddenly science finds out, as in this particular case, that the popular knowledge really had a sound foundation, whose only fault was that it had not been analyzed. The revelation in this case comes through the observation that cereal grains expire carbon dioxide gas, and are thus capable of influencing the state of eggs buried in them just as the carbon-dioxide used in the laboratory experiments affects the eggs exposed to it.

Nature is a big free school whose ordinary lessons are often regarded with undue contempt. There are two classes of men who stand ahead of most others in the extent of their lore of this kind—the farmers and the seamen. Scientific meteorologists smile deprecatingly at the weather knowledge of the countryman, but the latter usually has the laugh on his side when it is a question of prediction by the appearances and behavior of the clouds, fogs and mists. He has no knowledge of hyperbars or infrabars, but nature seldom deceives him about her intentions. Like many of his animal friends and dependents he can "feel" what the weather is breeding, more surely than the meteorologist can read it with all his instruments, or deduce it from theory. And the "weather eye" of the seaman is as trustworthy as the indications of "the glass."

Long and sometimes contemptuous has been the dispute between popular lore and scientific deduction concerning the influence of the moon upon the weather, the crops, the generation of seeds, household operations such as bleaching linen, the durability or otherwise of cut timber, etc. Science generally rejects all these claims as preposterous, or superstitious, or as the outgrowth of imperfect observation and accidental coincidence.

Yet an ever-lingering doubt is indicated by the fact that scientific books frequently refer to these things, with a somewhat uncertain condemnation, especially when the question of lunar influence upon terrestrial magnetism is brought under consideration. There is such an influence, however slight, and magnetism is a word to conjure with. One doesn't exactly see what consequences to expect from it. The more we learn scientifically of the strange forces playing about us, the less safe it is to dogmatize.

A pleasing bit of old common knowledge was that expressed by the adage, "Do business when the wind is in the northwest."

People had observed that a northwest wind invigorates the body and clears the mind. Science justified the adage after the invention of systematic meteorology by discovering that a northwest wind descending behind a country-wide cyclone always brings cool, pure air from upper levels of the atmosphere.

But whether science will ever justify the old housewife's belief that the only good way to whiten linen is to leave it spread out on the grass during a moonlit night, I can not tell; so, too, with the ancient Rhinelaud belief that the kiss of the full moon on the cheek of the ripening grape is the surest condition for a golden vintage. Of one thing one may be sure; that common knowledge is never altogether mistaken.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

HOUSEWORK IS NOW VERY EASY FOR THIS LADY

MRS IRA McCLURE

For more than two years I have suffered much misery and distress because of stomach kidney and liver troubles, said Mrs Ira McClure of 44 State St Mansfield Ohio who is well known locally

My stomach was in such a delicate condition that I was actually afraid to eat because of the agony I suffered afterward from indigestion gas and sourness This gas formation seemed to press up against my heart causing sharp pains fluttering and shortness of breath

My kidneys were in a weakened condition I continually had a dull aching pain across my back and they disturbed me many times each night I was subject to staggering dizzy spells dark floating spots seemed to appear before my eyes and I became so nervous that I couldn't sleep for hours after going to bed at night

I spent hundreds of dollars on medicines during these two years but could get no relief and I was beginning to be discouraged with them all when I read about the Nu Irb But I finally decided to give it a trial and it is most fortunate for me that I did as in a remarkably short time it has given me wonderful relief from each of these troubles My food digests now better than it has for several years and I am no longer troubled because of gas or sourness Nu Irb has also strengthened my kidneys so that I have practically no trouble that way It has put an end to the dizzy spells and spots before my eyes My nerves are quiet and I sleep soundly at night

"DOLL UP" IS MOTTO FOR MALES IN PARIS

PARIS—"Doll Up" seems to be the motto of many Frenchmen in the capital these days. Their complexions as well as the cut of their clothes are coming in for a great deal of attention and the masseurs declare that as many men as women are now coming to them for facial treatments.

"They are very shy about owning up to the secret of their good looks," says Madame Aline, one of the best French masseuses, "and generally arrange to have their skins treated at their own homes when Madame has been done. I find them, in nearly every case, just as coquettish as their wives but they do not like to admit it."

FLIER SETS RECORD FOR HOPS OVER MOUNTAINS

CHICAGO—When Clair Vance, veteran Boeing pilot, recently completed his eighteen hundredth hop over the "hump," a name given the summit of the Sierras between Reno, Nevada, and Oakland, Calif, he established a national record for hurdling mountains.

On his daily flight with the air-mail and passenger transport plane Vance goes from sea level to 12,000 feet. On the 1,800 trips he has had only one forced landing.

CRIPPLED GIRL LIVES ALONE ON HOMESTEAD

DENVER—A crippled, 23-year old girl prepared to leave her home here recently for her homestead on the wide plains of Wyoming. She must stay there for seven months, alone, to prove up her claim to the land. Already she has spent 14 months on the ranch within the past two years.

In fulfilling the legal requirements of her homstead project, Miss Dorothy Whitehead, daughter of a Denver attorney, has spent her time six miles from her mail box, 20 miles from a store, and four miles from her nearest neighbor—and she likes it.

Woman's Endurance Record.

"AVIATRIX, up in the air two hours, shatters woman's endurance record" News item.

Magnificent! But it will take more than a daring flying feat to shatter woman's endurance record.

Woman's ENDURANCE record goes back thousands of years, to the time when the first man went off and left her hanging up in a tree, wondering if he would ever come back.

It dates back to the time when Antony left Cleopatra "up in the air," while he sailed away to see what the Boys were doing in Rome.

And to the time when Aeneas sneaked stealthily away and left Dido "up in the air." And to when Theseus lit out and left Ariadne "up in the air," all alone upon an island. And to when Ulysses went wandering around from one woman to another, while he left Penelope "up in the air."

Yes, and even back to the time when Adam left Eve "up in the air," while he went off to see what the world was like, or to spend a few days with Lilith—and called it "going fishing."

Men are always leaving women "up in the air" And the average woman's "endurance record" is anything from ten minutes to twenty-four hours a day. From half a year to half a lifetime!

Waiting for him to come back!

Waiting for him to telephone her!

Waiting for him to answer her LETTERS!

Waiting for him to look at her or to dance with her or to discover that he loves her!

Waiting for him to propose MARRIAGE!

Waiting for him to come home to dinner!

Waiting for him to get up mornings!

Waiting for him to finish his newspaper, or to finish shaving, or to relinquish the bathroom, or to get out of the house mornings.

Waiting for him to find his shoes—or his hat—or his pipe—or his motor-gloves—or the tickets he left in his other clothes.

Waiting for him to get over a bad habit, or a foolish infatuation!

Waiting for him to TELL her something, or explain something, or admit something or SAY something or do something!

Most of a woman's life is just one long endurance record! Three-quarters of her existence is spent "up in the air." She never has both feet on the ground—because she never knows just where a man is or where he's going to be or what he's doing or what he's going to do!

When washing woolens, give them a final squeeze through clean soapsuds and let them dry with the soap in them. They do not drip, but dry rapidly, and remain surprisingly soft.

"WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD"

Verdict of Woman Who Tried Pinkham's Compound

Tully, N. Y.—"It hurt me to walk or sit down without help and I felt sick and weak. My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. The medicines that will do for me what the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHARLES MORGAN, R. F. D 1, Tully, N. Y.

Vanardy raised his throbbing head [illegible] at the clock on the man [illegible] About two hours ago

Quer said Bell regarding him [illegible] but hear a thin These are almost [illegible] proof enough

Vanardy's mind seized upon one of [illegible] problems of the moment

I [illegible] ance The shot that was fired in the room he might of the murder was fired in the other parts of the house

Miss Warne was the one who heard it and she aroused the servants' Bell reminded him She is not here now as you know Maybe that explains

Vanardy nodded dully Thanks to the fresh breeze, his mind was beginning to function again

Tell me about your tussle with the ghosts Bell urged him

There isn't much to tell Shortly after midnight there were three taps on the door I looked out in the hall but the light was out and I couldn't see any one As I replied I went back into the room and locked the door the room went suddenly dark Someone spoke to me and I jumped at him We had quite a scuffle I was having the best of the argument but suddenly another person appeared in the room and knocked me out with a blow on the head That's all I know

All asked Bell with an arching of the brow

Substantially all so I Vanardy evasively not caring to enter upon a recital of his conversation with the ghostlike intruder I can't remember everything

There is such a thing as remembering too much declared the detective ageily A shrewd twinkle in his eyes he glanced along the soft looking walls that seemed to give the lie to Vanardy's story of the encounter in the dark

He got up and crossed the window and the shutters then sat down and spread out his legs with a lingering air Take it up Dawson Better push up your story before you tell it to Stanhope or Culligore They may not believe it

Do you

Bell groaned Sure thing But they may not If you like I'll try to tell a story of that kind it will be more logical more It goes to show that somebody knows how to enter this house in a way we can't see Tell you Dawson, it takes a crook like me without conscience or principles to know when a man is lying or telling the truth How does the head feel

Better

You must have got a pretty good wallop from the way you looked when I first saw you Tough luck Dawson but we'll be drinking champagne on top of that fellows grave some day Too bad you didn't get a look at the man you had the tussle with What did his voice sound like?

Like an ancient Egyptian priest chanting a funeral hymn'

Can't get far on that description Did you get any other kind of impression of him

He can shoot straight He is muscular I'll be hanged much endurance That's all at present He could have added that his adversary in the dark appeared to have familiarized himself with the plans of the Gray Phantom and that he knew something concerning the whereabouts of Helen Hardwick and her father but he did not feel like going too deeply into confidential matters.

It is not much said Bell with a shrug Do you suppose the man you had the tussle with is the one who killed Craig

Vanardy reflected before he answered I am not sure he declared but I think he knows how Craig was killed

Bell studied his face for a moment and there was a quiver at the corners of his lips That's what I call weighing one's words I've said before that you are deeper than you look and I say it again Let's have a few frank words Dan on Do you think I killed Craig

Vanardy survived his hardest angular face Until three hours ago I would have said that you were the only man who as far as physical appearances went had the opportunity Since then I have had a demonstration of the fact that there is more than one way of entering this room That doesn't prove your innocence though It only lessens the weight of suspicion against you

You talk like a lawyer said Bell disgustedly What I like in plain words I can't get them from Culligore or Stanhope They seem to think though that if I didn't kill Craig the Gray Phantom did Do you agree with them

Vanardy bent his returning wits to a consideration of the blunt question I don't think the case has narrowed down that far There are other possibilities in the field aside from you and the Phantom

For instance?

A tattooed arm rose before Vanardy's mental vision but he evaded the question 'Down a detective Bell I am only an amateur I am sure you can see as far as I can There is no need of mentioning names

Bell grunted Speaking of names he drawled cocking a nere mysteriously I wonder where you picked up yours

Discovered

Vanardy started and lent a sharp gaze on the man across the table The remnant of his dazed feeling was gone in an instant a fact what do you mean he said quietly

Bell looked at him steadily his lips parted in a faint shrewd smile I'll tell you Mr Philip Dawson I'm a crook and I like plain words I had my suspicions about you at the start but now I know You're the Gray Phantom

In an instant Vanardy was on his feet flexing his muscles for quick action

Hold your horses drawled Bell No use getting excited You've been to a great deal to realize how badly you got mussed up in the fusile You've lost your spectacles and your beard is a sight You ought to take a look at yourself in the mirror

A blank look came into Vanardy's eyes followed instantly by an expression of infinite alertness He glanced at the door then fixed Bell with a coolly determined gaze With an incredibly swift movement he reached the detective's side of the table

Keep cool said Bell calmly There's no harm done I wouldn't have caught you the way I did if you hadn't been so far from the crack you got There's a warrant out for your arrest but that means nothing in my young life I'm a crook and I haven't much use for the police Better not let Culligore or Stanhope hoi you out though

You mean you won't tell

Who should I? I am the greatest looker out for the main chance there ever was but there wouldn't be anything in that for me I've no quarrel with the Gray Phantom Culligore is a square cop but he and I are on different sides of the fence. I don't like Stanhope he's too slick to suit me All I care about is the welfare and prosperity of little old Harry Bell

Vanardy gave him a searching glance trying to plumb the contradictions that made up his strange personality Bell looking rather bored lighted a cigaret

I can't quite make you out Bell said Vanardy

Don't try Put your mind on something else for a change Try to figure out how two men can get into a room with door and window locked and then walk right out again leaving the window and door locked behind them without being seen by the occupant of the room

Theories

A baffled look came into Vanardy's face Our common sense tells us it can't be done

That's strange talk coming from the Gray Phantom who done the impossible more times than I can count. Anyhow it has been done it's been done twice You've seen it happen once, and so have I"

Vanardy nodded, and then his eyes growing smaller, he glanced at the door "There's one striking thing about these two performances, Bell In each instance the appearance of the fellow was preceded by three raps at the door"

"Bell gave a disparaging gesture. "He wanted to make it appear as spooky as possible."

"And in each instance," Vanardy went on, "persons [illegible] thought [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Espurgus Jesus of troop 1 finished second and Herman Rhu Jr of troop 7 took third award Both of these boys finished considerably below the record set by Edsall in winning the cup for his troop The winner's plane excelled in all three divisions that the planes were judged on

It attained a height of 315 feet remained in the air for 18 seconds and was voted the best built plane of the five competing

Jesus plane flew 65 feet and stayed in the air for only five seconds Rhus plane was a close third staying in the air four seconds and going up 60 feet

Captain Brown said that Edsall's plane is one of the best home made planes he had ever seen flv

Edsall is the boy who last summer at camp was voted the scout who made the best record in the use of his time and opportunities and for this was awarded a free period at the camp this summer

May Enter National Meet

The scoutmasters trophy will be presented to troop 6 at its next meeting and an individual medal given to Edsall W C Brown scout executive who arranged for the meet said this morning that Edsall would probably be taken to the national aviation meet to be held in Louisville Ky on Oct 18 19

The trophy which Edsall won must be defended by the troop at each meet that is held by the scouts The next meet that is planned is scheduled for Aug 3 at the scout camp

Mr Brown also said that model plane building would be stressed at the scout camp this summer Special instruction will be given the scouts attending the camp on model aviation work

If a man saves his own life he'll tell about it forever if he saves another's he is often too modest to say much about it

WORK UNDER WAY

Weeding of Onion Crop in Hardin County Marshes Begins

KENTON, May 27—An amendment to the tariff bill increasing the duty on onions to two cents a pound was included in the 91 proposed changes agreed upon by the house ways and means committee and submitted to the Republican caucus according to dispatches received here from Washington

The amendments are to be voted on in the house during the week

Under a temporary provision a tariff of one and one-half cents on onions is in effect the half cent increase being granted by former President Coolidge

In their new request presented recently before congressional committees in Washington the growers asked for a two and one half cent duty

While action is being awaited on the establishment of a permanent tariff rate growers are continuing with their cultivation of large onion tracts in both the Scioto and Big Creek marshes west of here A total of approximately 3800 acres are in seed

The onion weeding season in the marshes which will furnish employment for hundreds of men and boys of this district, got under way this week

Continued rains have brought on an unusually heavy crop of weeds this year and the weeding has been delayed by the wet condition of the ground but the onions themselves are said to be in the finest condition in many years

JUDGE DISMISSES JURY AT BUCYRUS

Deadlock Results in Court Action May Retry Crawford County Suit

BUCYRUS May 27—After deliberating for approximately 14 hours the jury which heard the evidence introduced in the $50 000 damage suit against Marshal H L Fessler of New Washington brought by Albert Miller Attica youth was dismissed by Common Pleas Judge J Walter Wright at 2:10 o'clock Saturday afternoon when it became evident that they were hopelessly deadlocked 8 to 4 It is likely that the case will be retried

Considerable attention was attracted to the case which occupied the common pleas court from Tuesday to Saturday in that it involved the right of a police officer to use a gun in enforcement of the prohibition law

Miller the plaintiff charged that the New Washington marshals fired three shots at a car in which he and two other Attica men were leaving the village on the night of June 1, 1928 and that one of the shots penetrated his lungs leaving him physically disabled and damaging him in the sum of $40 000

Fessler admitted firing the shots but insists that he fired only after he was certain the car contained liquor and after the youths pushed him off the running board of their car when he attempted to arrest them He further asserted that the report of a breaking bottle thrown from the fleeing car caused him to fear he had been fired upon and that his life was in danger

FIGHT LOOMS OVER OUSTING OF IOWA

CLEAN-UP OF BIG 10 OVER SUBSIDIZATION OF PLAYERS STARTS

Other Schools of Western Conference Expected To Feel Axe

CHICAGO, May 27—A battle royal within the Big Ten conference loomed today following the expulsion of the University of Iowa for alleged recruiting and subsidizing of athletes. A storm of protest from the Hawkeye institution and among Iowa alumni here contained charges that Iowa is no more guilty than other universities in the Western conference.

"If Iowa is thrown out," the alumni will see to it that others go out with her," was the belligerant attitude of the Alumni association, headed by the Chicago chapter.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, in his first public statement since the sudden and secret expulsion of Iowa late Saturday, declared last night that conditions in the Western conference "are getting worse."

Griffith, though guarded in his statements, intimated that conference officials are not yet through cleaning house. He invited all those with knowledge of conference rule violations to tell what they know to him.

Several Big Ten athletic directors, who would not allow their names to be used, admitted that other conference schools are not above suspicion.

The Chicago chapter of Iowa alumni today threatened court action to compel conference officials to make public their specific charges which prompted the expulsion of Iowa. This will be in the form of a federal injunction restraining enforcement of the ouster, it was indicated.

Griffith admitted that he found conditions as had in the conference that the making of new football schedules last week had to be postponed.

Reports from Iowa City quote Dr. Walter Jessup, president of the expelled university as stating that he knew nothing of the charges against the athletic department of his school, neither did he know the identity of the accusers or the nature of the official expulsion order.

Feeling on the Iowa campus is said to be running high against Paul E. Belting, deposed director of athletics at the Hawkeye institution, who was quoted as saying he believed the conference's judgment of Iowa was correct.

Will Do Big 10 Athletes Good

COLUMBUS, May 27—The expulsion of Iowa from the Big Ten, will cause other schools of that conference to "take stock of themselves," said L. W. St. John, director of athletics at the Ohio State university here today in commenting on the action.

According to International News Service wires from the western city, Iowa was "kicked out" for subsidizing athletes, which means aiding athletes in a material way.

"The act will prove a benefit to college athletes in the long run," St. John was of the opinion.

"I have felt for some time," the Ohio State university monitor declared, "that a start should be made at some point in correcting certain conditions in college athletics, but I am sorry to see Iowa or any other institution made the starting point."

Symes Makes Hole in One

Joins Dr. Mahla in 1929 Race at Marion Country Club; Drive Made on No. 6 Hole During Play Sunday Afternoon

"HE'S not so good," quoth Wilbur Symes Sunday afternoon when he stole a little glory from Dr. F. E. Mahla by scoring a hole in one on the Marion country club course, the second to be reported in three days.

The hole in one club promises to become the outstanding organizations of the course. At the rate new members are rolling in it will probably include nearly every golfer in the country club.

Symes became eligible for the exclusive club from his performance on No. 6 hole. Symes drove onto the green the ball landing eight feet from the pin. It then rolled into the cup. He was playing with Ralph Rawlings, Howard Mapes and C. A. Howser. No. 6 hole is listed at 150 yards.

In addition to making the hole in one, Symes finished in a tie for second place in the blind bogey tournament. The tournament was won by Dan Evans who shot a 92. Symes with a 91 tied with Dan La Marche, K. M. Bower and Carl La Marche who were one stroke above the bogey.

Eagles Chalk Up First Victory of Season

Meredith, Tavennollo Meet Tonight

KEYSTONE NINE OF COLUMBUS UNABLE TO STOP LOCALS

Marion Nine Shows Improved Form To Outslug Colored Boys, 7 to 5

BY KARL K. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

TWO big innings in which eight of their 12 hits were pounded out gave the Marion Eagles their first victory of the season when the Columbus Keystones were defeated at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon, 7 to 5.

It was a much better team that defeated the dusky boys from Columbus than opened the season three weeks ago against the Springfield Kibler Clothiers. The Springfield team won that game 12 to 4 in a hectic session of errors and misplays that did not appear on the scorebook.

Sunday Marion gave its new pitcher, Sep Good, fine support and the former Detroit tosser turned in a nine-hit performance. Marion made two errors, one by Oberlander who dropped an easy fly and the other by Shoup who tossed wild to first. Oberlander's error did no damage while Shoup's wild fling resulted in one run being scored. Two misplays were made in the field that did not change the outcome.

Rizor's Bat Active

Rizor was the scoring star for Marion getting two runs off two hits in four trips to the plate. His bat also drove in two runs. Baldauf and Conroy were the heavy hitters getting three bingles each. Baldauf passed up a chance to turn in a perfect day at bat when he stopped to pick flowers along the first base line.

Two long drives were recorded in the game. One was by Womack who clouted the apple over center field fence and the other by Rizor who made three bases on a drive to deep center.

The Keystones scored in the third inning when Lorett led off with a single to left field. He scored on sacrifices by Allen and Williams.

Eagles Score in Fourth

The Eagles came back strong in the fourth to gain a three run lead. Toomire was caught sleeping at first after being walked. Good was given a free ticket of first and went to third on Shoup's double. Good and Shoup each scored when Rizor doubled to left field. The scoring was completed in the inning when Rizor trotted home from second on Baldauf's single to left.

The boys played sociably until the sixth inning when both teams cut open. Moore and Womack opened up with singles and scored on Kerner's double to the right field fence. Kerner scored when Dennis' grounder to Shoup was tossed too high for Conroy to handle. Three runs in the sixth placed the Keystone one counter to the good as the final half of the inning opened.

Rizor started the inning by smashing a triple to center. Irvin then struck out with Baldauf scoring Rizor

Eagles Junior baseball nine stepped out to its fourth consecutive victory when the Elks fell before their rival lodgemen by a 18-to-4 count Saturday afternoon at Lincoln Park. This win which was gathered on 12 hits and seven Elk errors, practically cinches the city championship for the Eagles.

Kiwanis is the only team within speaking distance of the birdmen as they managed to nose out a 13-to-12 win over the K. of C. team in the nightcap of Saturday's twin bill. Morgan, hurling his first ball game for the Kiwanians, gave 12 bases on balls but struck out 14 men to stay in the race.

The winning run came in when Harrold a pinch hitter for Whiteum in the last of the ninth singled with third base occupied.

Adams hurled for the Eagles and allowed only eight hits and gave only one walk. Rayburn of the Kiwanis

Pittsburgh Turns Tables On Cardinals This Season by Winning 5 Out of 7

ONE of the main reasons why the St. Louis Cardinals won the National league pennant last year was their ability to beat Pittsburgh. The Red Birds took 15 of their 22 games with the Pirates.

This year, however, the shoe is on the other foot. The Bucs have taken the measure of the champions five times in seven games. They won two out of three from the Cards recently and knocked them out of first place yesterday by beating them twice, 12 to 8 and 7 to 5.

The Pirates who have won six of their last eight games, are only five percentage points behind St. Louis this morning and will take second if they trim the Red Birds again today.

The spurt of the Pirates and the Giants have transformed the National league scramble into a four-cornered race. The Giants have won five straight, mainly at the expense of the slipping Braves, but will be put to a sterner test this week in their series with the fast-traveling Brooklyn Robins who have copped seven of their last nine starts.

Roger's Hornsby's homer with one on base featured Chicago's 5-to-1 win over the disorganized Cincinnati outfit yesterday. The undefeated Guy Bush chalked up his fifth victory of the season and pitched the Bruins back into first place.

Two pinch hitters, Pat Crawford of the Giants and Les Bell, of the Braves, each hit a home run with the bases loaded as New York swamped Boston 15 to 8. Old Cy Williams pinch-hit a homer with two in the ninth and apparently won a ball game for the Phillies, but a counter rally enabled Brooklyn to nose out the Quakers by a 5-to-4 count.

Jess Haines of the Cardinals, undefeated in his last 14 games, was beaten as the Pirates outslugged the Cards in the first game of their double bill. Douthit collected seven hits during the afternoon, including one homer, and Bottmley bit for the circuit twice.

Eleven straight for the Athletics in the American league with Washington again the victim yesterday by a 4-to-3 score. Mick Cochrane had a perfect day at bat with five hits. It looks as if nobody but Judge Landis will be able to stop the murderous Mackmen.

Red Faber 40-year-old spitball pitcher spending his sixteenth season with the Chicago White Sox, held the slugging Tigers to one hit, a single by Gehringer in the fourth. Ownie Carroll allowed the Sox only four bingles, but errors gave Chicago a 2-to-0 win.

Homers by Ruth, Meusel and Dickey featured the Yankees' 15-to-4 landslide over the Red Sox. Ruth's homer was the ninth, leaving him only one behind Gehrig.

Rip Collins of the Browns won a neat pitching duel from Hudlin of Cleveland, 1 to 0.

PERRY PLACES THIRD IN JUMP AT MEET

Three Other Harding High Stars Fail To Finish at Columbus

Claude Perry, Harding high school's star trackster, was the only member of the Red and Black team to place in the Ohio interscholastic track and field meet at Columbus Saturday afternoon.

Jumping 21 feet and six inches, Perry finished third in the broad jump. The event was taken by Shell of Columbus Central with a leap of 22 feet, 3-8 inches. Crawford, Humeston and Zimmer also participated in the meet but were listed among the "also rans."

Perry's feat gave Harding three points.

HAGEN CHANGES MIND

LONDON, May 27—Walter Hagen, British open champion, who cancelled his match with Archie Compston scheduled for this week, has "changed his mind" and will come to England for the match, a Berlin message to the "Daily Mail" stated today.

COLUMBUS MOVES TO SEVENTH PLACE

Senators Split with Indianapolis; Hens Beat Louisville

With only three games contested yesterday, and two of 'em what are called double-headers, top standings in the American association remained unchanged from yesterday, but considerably transmuted from the Friday list.

By reason of splitting a double-header with Indianapolis, and by reason of Louisville falling before the onslaught of Toledo, the Columbus Senators were hoisted from the cellar position.

Louisville is now the official keeper of the key to the basement, which is just another way of saying it is at the bottom of the ladder.

In the three games played yesterday, Columbus nosed out Indianapolis by a 10-to-9 score; were in turn nosed out by a 3-to-2 tally in the second game, and Toledo knocked Louisville around the diamond and grass plots of the outfield for an 8-to-1 victory.

OSAGE INDIANS FACING CUT IN OIL ROYALTIES

PONCA CITY, Okla.—Members of the Osage Indian Tribe are now on a $35-a-week basis unless they have surpluses laid up. Dwindling of oil production has cut down the amount they receive in royalties and bonuses.

When the last quarterly payment was made to Osages, amounting to $1,000 per capita, it was necessary in some cases to draw on the surpluses of various members of the tribe.

with a double to center. Baldauf scored when Higgins got his first hit of the game by easing a drive through third for a double. Oberlander's double through short was good for another counter. Oberlander went to third on Conroy's single and Moore's error on Toomire's pop past second allowed Oberlander to score. Good's sacrifice allowed Conroy to reach third where he died, Shoup fouling out to Womack.

The only other scoring of the contest came in the eighth frame when Womack led off the inning with a homer over center field fence.

Many Americans Living Abroad Prefer France

WASHINGTON May 27—Americans with semi-permanent residence abroad are scattered from countries within the Arctic circle to the remote South Seas but France is the most popular of all overseas homes for citizens of the United States the department of commerce learned today

For the benefit of American industries and exporters the business promotion section of the government asked the state department to compile a census of citizens living abroad

Many in Paris

The report just published showed that out of the 419,068 Americans living semi-permanently in Europe 30,000 reside in France Officials expressed the opinion that a majority of citizens of all countries living in France are of the upper classes attracted there by the low cost of living many social

Britain were found 111 citizens of this country

In South America

There were 171 Americans in South America in 1928 in Argentina Brazil and Chile

Mexico and Central America 19,614 West Indies and Bermuda, 10,000 Africa 3,675 Australia and Oceania 2,337 Asia 1,119

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Strawberries were ranging around slightly lower levels this morning as the week's market prices opened Some local grocers were selling a fair grade of berries at two quarts for 33 cents considerably lower than opening quotations here a few weeks ago

There is still available the crop of small unwashed berries from the glut of the crop these coming from Tennessee and Arkansas Choicest berries are still around 20 cents these coming from Kentucky

Green beans were standing at 10 cents a pound this morning a slight drop from last week when beans were selling around two pounds for 25 cents Yellow wax beans remained at 10 cents this morning

Today's Review of Grain Market

CHICAGO May 27—Local grain prices covered an erratic course the past week and finished with comparatively small changes The markets owed their stability to short covering and buying induced by adverse weather conditions which was of sufficient volume to offset the bearish statistical positions of the respective grains Rallies in wheat were of short duration as Argentine competition continued to lower world values Corn prices ruled moderately higher because of reported planting delays

Closing prices Saturday showed the following net changes compared with a week ago Wheat ½@1c lower corn 1@1¼c lower oats 1⅝@2c lower and rye unchanged to ¾c lower

Market observers were inclined to ascribe the comparative stability of local wheat prices the past week to short covering This induced in part by the remote possibility of damage to the Canadian crop by lack of moisture theoretically weakened the technical position of the market and in no way reflected any general change in sentiment.

On the whole from a domestic standpoint the situation appeared to grow more bearish The continued talk of cheap prices after our break of 32c means little inasmuch as these prices promise no opportunity of reducing our surplus before the new crop is harvested

CASE SET FOR TUESDAY

Mrs. Mary Kessler, 121 Scioto st., is expected to stand trial in Municipal court today to a charge of harboring a vicious dog, filed by W. S.

How Many of These Can You Identify and How Many of Them Fooled You?

Reading down left to right William Haskell the young aviator who resembles Lindy; Saverio Sicilia a New York barber whose family is very proud of his likeness to the great Mussolini Attorney George McKelvey of Ohio is the dead spittin image of our own President Herbert Hoover The Rev Lincoln Caswell student of Abe Lincoln and a physical counterpart of the great Emancipator; Senator Royal S Copeland of New York who is often mistaken for Senator Hiram Johnson of California Sir Charles F Madden former commander of the British Fleet a striking double of King George of England; Max Schmelling the German boxer who is a dead ringer for Jack Dempsey

How Well Do You Know Your Famous Persons?

Are you one of those Doesn't he look like so and so boys? If you are here's a real gold mine for you Above are pictures of men in public life who look enough like other prominent persons to be mistaken for them

They say every prominent person has a double somewhere Now there may be a certain psychology about this business that you don't take into consideration

Peculiarly enough these resemblances often occur in two persons who have the same calling in life Isn't it possible that one of those people may admire the other so tremendously that he emulates him to an extent which results in the strong resemblance?

Take the case of Lindy Naturally enough there is a vast number of men who would like to look like him An amusing experience is recorded in this instance of a young aviator in Ohio who landing at an airport after a flight so resembled Colonel Lindbergh he was mistaken for the great flyer

A very unusual likeness has been found to exist between Jack Dempsey the famous fighter, and Max Schmelling the German heavyweight boxer In this case the physical likeness is further emphasized by the similarity of fighting style

Look these pictures over and test yourself See if you can guess both whom these men resemble, and who they really are

Can You Identify Them at First Glance?—Why Not?
